EU OVERALL ECONOMY REVIEW

Growth is expected to remain soft next year, after dropping sharply in 2019

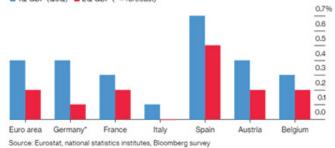

A tough external environment will likely continue to weigh on investment and exports, while household spending is seen stalling on more modest labor sector gains. Risks stem from the global environment, particularly a sharp slowdown in China and intensification of trade tensions. Growth is seen at 1.1% in 2019 and 1.1% again in 2020, which is down 0.1 percentage points from last month's forecast.

Growth is seen at 1.0% in 2020, which is down 0.1 percentage points from last month's forecast. In 2021, GDP is seen increasing 1.3%.

MARKET TRENDS

Pulp material and Plastic recycling in focus

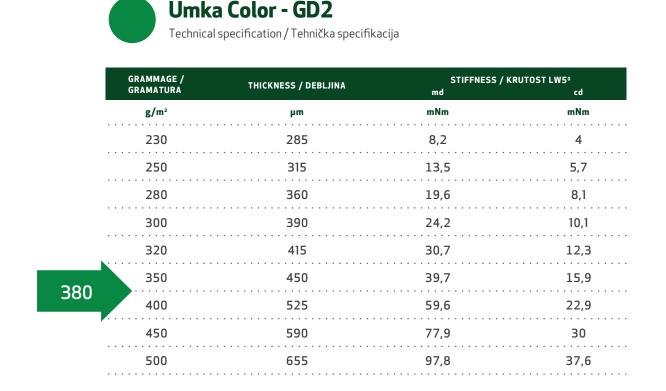

Past months Pulp material producers faced pressure on prices, because of two important factors: on one side stocks of southern bleached softwood kraft (SBSK) were high, especially in southern Europe countries, while on the other side demand from paper Mills was lowered. However some pulp producers are reporting rising demand from China, which can cause opposite trend in price movements.

According to latest researches by environmental organisations around 30% of plastic waste in EU is consigned to landfills, 40% is incinerated and rest 30% is recycled. Used plastics that are consigned to different landfills are creating a very big problem to ecosystem, even more, it enters different food chains. Because of those facts numerous of paper producers see great potential in replacing plastics with cardboard/paper boxes/bags. How the industry will adapt to these new trends and ecological needs we will see, but having in mind that market potential (cca. 6 billion) is so big, we believe changes will soon take over.

Celebration of the 80th anniversary – Umka Cardboard Mill

It was year 1939. when first ton of cardboard was produced here in Umka. Since then 80 years passed, including great war, different social-economic systems (socialism, democracy) several countries changes (Yugoslavia, Serbia and Montenegro, Republic of Serbia), privatisation and many other factors.

Now after 80 years we can proudly say that all these factors influenced on Mill to become more adaptable, more flexible and always together with our suppliers and customers.

Thank you for your trust all these years.

Year 2019 was very intense at Umka when it comes to deliveries via sea containers.

This year we started exports to North America, and with modest 500 tons in this year we see this as a very nice achievement and chance for future development.
